

Dear friends,

Thank you for your letters of kindness that remind us about the precious experience of life that unites us together in the common golden cup of the heart.

Few of you have been part of our common journey and continue on.

A living spirituality is essentially at the heart of discovering that each of us in this world is linked by the thread of a universal realization.

This personal discovery ensures that we transit from the secular to the divine. The spiritual experience teaches us and is constantly defined through the unlimited hope of transcendence.

The human species is destined to climb back into the realm of God, just like the unique drop of water dissolves itself into the immense ocean.

The immensity of the tasks require constant humility and drive. All the acquired knowledge of our academic institutions only help us to define the relative and the precarious aspect of our life into this world. Spirituality and the quest for wisdom offers each of us to accomplish our mission in a fulfilled life.

Nobody is in advance, nobody is late as the dimension of space and time will vanish into the imponderable of the absolute.

Thank you again to everybody that shares this lofty goal.

Michel
